

I should say that when I say “theatre” I also mean the world.

when there’s little time left, what world can we create?

What is our theatre?

a play-conversation & art installation about love, catastrophe, capitalism and climate grief, and yes, theatre too.

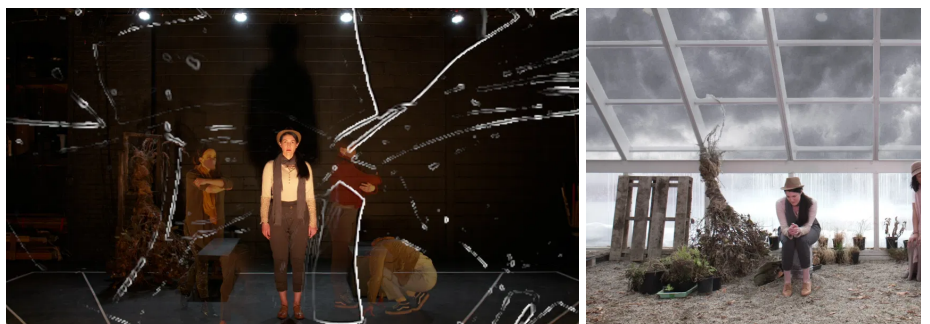

Let’s create new stories together in this world premiere trans-media exploration, a blending of theatre and film delivered to you live.

This is a show for everyone who loves theatre, and misses theatre, but who is sick of American theatre not living up to all it can and should be. It’s a theatrical experience where you and actors sort out all that we loved about coming together to tell stories, rage against what’s wrong with everything, and rediscover what’s worth fighting for. And when we say “theatre” we also mean the world.

Written by celebrated playwright Caridad Svich (Red Bike, OBIE Lifetime Achievement award) and made in collaboration with Pones (<https://pones.org/>).

What do you miss about the world? What can we reclaim?
